A war with God ye do engage, Remember Satan in his rage. Your argument is like a ball, T will strike thee back from solid wall. Proud, boasting man, thy laws to make, But heed ye not God s laws to break. The savage Indian roams the plain, Expects a spirit land to gain; The God that dwells within his breast, Speaks of a spirit land of rest O, beautiful and grand desire, That shines like diamonds from the mire. The link that holds twixt him and God, Or else twixt God and world, avoid. His wisdom speaks through dim and wild, The Father first and then the Child. And through his mind this problem sift, The Giver first, and then the gift, He feels a higher power above, That gave to him this life through love; This garb of dust that hides the soul Till it can reach a better goal. And nature is his Bible, too, That teaches him all things so true. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
