The House having under consideration the bill reported by the Committee on Military Affairs, to provide for raising two additional regiments of riflemen, and for other purposes, and the question being upon the motion to commit the bill to the Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union, and Mr. John Quincy Adams and Mr. C. J. Ingersoll, and others, having addressed the House at length - Mr. Winthrop obtained the floor, and proceeded to say, that he understood the Chair to have decided that, upon the pending motion to refer to the Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union a bill for raising two regiments of riflemen, the whole question of Oregon was open to debate. The House, too, had virtually sanctioned this decision, by declining to sustain the previous question a few moments since. Mr. W.could not altogether agree in the fitness of such a decision, but was unwilling to omit the opportunity which it afforded for expressing some views upon the subject. My honorable colleague (Mr. Adams) in his remarks yesterday, and the chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs (Mr. C. J. Ingersoll) this morning, have alluded to the course pursued by them last year, and have told us that they both voted for giving immediate notice to Great Britain of our intention to terminate, at the earliest day, what has been called the convention of joint occupation. Though a much humbler member...
